1. Tremendous business is setting the pace - a pace that is forcing every one to grab at each second of time, regardless of life, risking all to be there first ----
Remember: "Hurry, Slowly"
2. Children are now considered as grown-ups and are compelled to learn at an early age their lesson in Safety First.
3. Play time finds the street an inviting but dangerous playground.
4. While the sidewalk offers safety.
5. Avoid collisions with automobiles by keeping foot-wagons and "kiddle" cars out of the street.
6. Boys standing in streets begging motorists for rides are prospective victims of accidents and kidnapping.
7. But stealing a ride perched on an extra tire is folly.
8. A batted ball cannot be controlled and may result in an accident when the street is used as a ball diamond.
9. Play ball where it can be done safely.
10. Daring stunts appeal to boys, but the risk is too great when a life is the forfeit.
11. Playing in or around excavations may cause the ground to suddenly give way and result in disaster.
12. Ride a bicycle close to the curb and always keep to the right -- "Hurry, Slowly."
13. Getting a piece of ice from a heavily loaded wagon is extremely dangerous.
14. "Didn't know it was loaded." Keep the muzzle of a gun pointed downward and away from other people.
15. Changing seats in a canoe nearly finished this boy's career.
16. Resuscitation.
17. When late for school don't become confused and run blindly along in an effort to be on time ---- "Hurry, Slowly."
18. Think of the unfortunate lad who can only imagine what he might be doing.
19. The future of the country depends upon its children.
20. Did you ever have this happen to you?
21. A case where two people decide at a critical moment to go in different directions and the pulling match which follows often ends in someone's getting hurt.
22. Washing windows without a safety belt doesn't mean "Safety First."
23. Remember that you can stop quicker than a train under way, so regard the flagman's signal.
24. Now there're plugging for Safety First -- and in the future will "Hurry, Slowly."
